New Polynesian Village Launched at Hacienda Matapalo in Costa Rica

Fort Lauderdale, Fl. -- A development of new Villa-Condos at Hacienda Matapalo will have the flair of the orient located in the area of Costa Rica where the Mountains meet the Sea, the booming Central South Pacific Coast.

"The Polynesian Village was designed in response to people who wanted a condo lifestyle, with the privacy afforded by a villa" said Brian Albury, Vice President of Design at Hacienda Matapalo. The Phase 1 home sites at Hacienda Matapalo sold out in five months, and the announcement of the new Polynesian Village has resulted in eight sales within the first week.

The Polynesian Village Villa-Condo is an architectural concept that is very unique, with no common walls, and the use of organic materials to convey the mood of an eco-friendly environment that is complimented by the numerous amenities and natural splendor of Hacienda Matapalo; which includes a private 125 acre nature preserve, waterfalls, beach club, and a magnificent clubhouse.

"The location and the investment in lifestyle at Hacienda Matapalo helped attract buyers for the home sites and that's what we're hoping will happen with this phase as well," he said.

Of the 2 and 3 bedroom Villa-Condos in the Polynesian Village, the views are either Lake Front or Tropical, starting in the $200,000 range.

The Polynesian Village joins the current offerings of Hacienda Matapalo which include Las Floras Villas, Las Vistas Condos, townhomes, and single family homes with tropical and ocean views
